Unique kitchens handmade by Zbären Swiss Kitchen Manufacture

Copper and zinc fused – brass in the kitchen

Nowadays the kitchen is no longer just for cooking. For some it has become a kind of status symbol. With fitted kitchens this is difficult to realize. That's why the Zbären manufacture from Lenk (canton Berne) in Switzerland specializes in handmade designer kitchens.

By Ernst Oberli

Ever since the kitchen has become more and more a living space, customer requirements have become more individual and sophisticated. Today, the kitchen should harmonize with the rest of the interior, look aesthetically pleasing and still be functional. It should radiate the personality of the owner. The kitchen decorators have to react to that. That's why Zbären manufacture specializes in handmade kitchens made from selected materials.

The family-owned company also uncompromisingly implements customer requests inside the kitchen. Sophisticated mechanisms are used in the kitchen elements that work with the utmost precision. Wooden components, such as solid oak inside the cutlery drawers, show the attention to detail as well as their pride in craftsmanship and their tradition as a carpenter. Modern, professional kitchen appliances discreetly integrated, complete the kitchen into a total work of art.

Every kitchen is unique: How the Zbären manufacture combines individual customer wishes and high-quality materials is shown by the example of the noble kitchen in a Bernese old town estate. The focus is on the large cooking island. Designed in simple and clean lines, it exudes a timeless, classic calm. The special feature: The old oak parquet is reflected in the encircling brass fronts and merges with the kitchen island spatial whole. The generous, one-piece quartzite work surface was selected by the customer in Verona.

Tradition and craftsmanship: Over three generations, Zbären Kreativküchen AG has developed from a small Mountain joinery into a world-renowned kitchen manufacturer whose unique kitchen items can be found not only throughout Switzerland but also around the world. The success is based on the continuous development through new ideas and the experimentation with new materials. Constantly motivated by demanding customers who discover the craft and artistic potential of the company and challenge it in a positive way. The result is impressive, exclusive kitchen artwork.

The spacious cooking island – the massive centre of the kitchen made of brass and quartzite merges with the room due to the reflection of the historic oak parquet
